

PREPARE FOR TAKEOFF

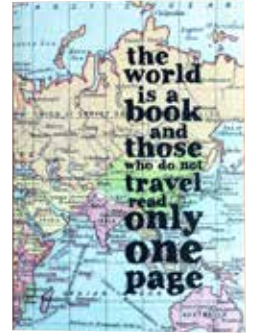

MyAir

MyAir was designed to take the stigma out of wearing a mask so you can look good and feel good – whether you're traveling, gardening, visiting a hospital or just slogging through cold and flu season. Advanced filtration adapted from medical respiratory technology provides comfort and respiratory protection. When not properly hydrated or protected, the nose and mouth become open gateways for germs and contaminants. This happens more often than you think, and dry tissues in the nose and throat not only make you more susceptible to germs, but also aggravate allergies, asthma and COPD. An ultrathin mask with advanced filtration, it is available in nine attractive designs for men and women. $19.99; www.myairmask.com

Vinnibag Inflatable Travel Bag

How do you safely get bottles of aged Italian wine or pure olive oil back home after a coastal holiday? Not rolled up in a hotel towel, but in an inflatable, reusable Vinnibag. Liquids, fine collectible items and any fragile valuables that an elite traveler wants to protect will be safe in a reusable Vinnibag in carry-ons or checked luggage. Vinnibag is TSA-friendly and is engineered specifically to withstand air travel and high altitudes. The design and materials allow for significant changes in air pressure and temperatures. Sophisticated testing was done at an independent test lab using altitude chambers that surpass normal conditions in aircraft cargo holds. Packing one is easy. Travelers stick items in the bag, inflate it with a few breaths of air, snap the bag closed, pack it in their travel bag, and then deflate it when they get home. Travelers can likely fit up to three inflated Vinnibags in their suitcase. Vinnibags can be reused as an ice pack, a smartphone holder in water, or even a bath pillow. $28; www.vinnibag.com.

New Route 66 Gift Shop

It may be at the end of the Route 66 highway, but the good buys are just getting started at Pacific Park's new custom Airstream Route 66 gift store, located in a 1,200-square-foot open-air corner space on the Santa Monica Pier.

Pacific Park has put a new twist to an old favorite with its shiny, polished aluminum, 16-foot custom Airstream that is fitted for merchandise display shelves, unique lighting and distinctive spaces to feature Route 66 memorabilia. The interior is enhanced by an automotive décor with three oldtime gas pumps, a license plates map of Route 66 states and specialty wood deck flooring.

And guests can get hip to this timely tip: don't miss the more than 200 novelty to collector items for purchase, ranging from $2 to $200, that includes, uniquely designed Route 66 T-shirts, handbags and shot glasses to clocks, artwork and coffeetable books.

Five free-wheeling multilevel custom display tables are parked in various spaces around the Route 66 gift store, including one that features the front end of a motorcycle that accentuates the open-air shopping concept.

Sleep Ambassadors at Resort

Piyada Phongphaet (left) and Vinod Narayanan are the new "Sleep Ambassadors" for Six Senses Laamu Resort, a beautiful palm-fringed resort located in the Maldives' southern Laamu Atoll. The aim of the unique position is to guide guests through a personalized sleep program by offering advice on techniques to rejuvenate the body and the mind, reduce stress levels and, as a result, improve sleep quality.

Additionally, the program helps enhance a feeling of well-being and attention span, improve creativity and overall mood through a series of yoga techniques such as yoga nidra (yogi sleep) and pranayama (breathing exercises), guided meditation through traditional ayurvedic and holistic treatments.

Vinod Narayanan comes from Kerala, India, the home of ayurvedic medicine. He is a health and fitness coach and also conducts Laughter Yoga, Aerial Yoga and Pranayama classes at the resort.

Sitting at the end of America's highway, Pacific Park introduces its new custom Airstream, themed Route 66 gift store with related merchandise for tourists and Route 66 enthusiasts
